

Melissa L. Rosado de Christenson, MD

Melissa L. Rosado de Christenson is a graduate of the Charter Class of the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Maryland, and retired from active duty in the United States Air Force Medical Corps as a Colonel in 2001 after over 25 years of service. She completed her residency in Diagnostic Radiology at the George Washington University Medical Center, Washington, DC and became a diplomat of the American Board of Radiology in 1984. She served as Chief of Pulmonary and Mediastinal Radiology and Chairman and Registrar of Radiologic Pathology at the former Armed Forces Institute of Pathology. She was Clinical Professor of Radiology at the Ohio State University for four years and is currently Section Chief of Thoracic Radiology, Director of Lung Screening at Saint-Luke's Hospital of Kansas City in Kansas City, Missouri and Professor of Radiology at the University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Medicine.

Dr. Rosado de Christenson is a Fellow of the American College of Radiology (ACR). She is Past-President of the American Roentgen Ray Society (ARRS), the Society of Thoracic Radiology (STR), and the American Association for Women Radiologists (AAWR). Dr. Rosado de Christenson is the recipient of the AAWR's 2004 Marie Sklodowska-Curie Award, the AAWR's 2016 Alice Ettinger Award and the ARRS's 2010 Best Educator Award. In 2017 she became an inaugural Fellow of the American Association for Women Radiologists. In 2018 she received the Gold Medal of the Society of Thoracic Radiology and the Gold Medal of the American Roentgen Ray Society. She has authored or co-authored several manuscripts on the pathologic basis of imaging abnormalities and several thoracic imaging textbooks.